RESEARCH SUPPORT

Planned Support

Champions for food Justice & healthier eating: A food systems, nutrition education & youth action research program.

This is a social justice oriented, active learning project designed to foster healthy eating through engaging youth in a critical exploration of the food system at large and in their specific community, along with a practical understanding of nutrition concepts. Applying cultural knowledge and historical memory, with inter-generational connections, the project aims to promote healthy eating and address the metabolic and cardiovascular health inequalities in specific Salt Lake County communities. Additionally, the program will stimulate interest in the health sciences and health professions with higher education options. This youth action research will be conducted in cooperation with the University of Utah Bennion Center for civic engagement, the Utah Area Health Education Centers, and the U Utah Office of the Associate Vice President for Health Equity, Diversity, & Inclusion.
